Premiered May 25, 2024

Billy Carson & Matthew LaCroix explore sunken cities from ancient advanced civilizations that thrived during the golden age. Were they smarter than us? Does evidence support mainstream narratives? In the latter part, Billy Carson delves into alien encounters, human origins, galactic wars, and Anunnaki influence

Billy Carson Return of the Djedi: Wisdom Keepers of One Mind and One Spirit

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xNJ-A84eccM>

The Force from Star Wars is a frequency and frequencies are light waves. You have the dark side and the light side, but it is all light. Everything exists as light.

The Djedi of the land of Kem (Egypt). Return of The Djedi is synonymous with “Raiding Consciousness” or “Raising Awareness”. Who were/are the Djedi? They were the ‘stable ones’—wisdom keepers of one mind and one spirit who, as initiates of Osirian mysteries, comprised the living terrestrial body of the archetypal, celestial Osiris. Contemporary Djedi are self-selecting re-generation of the cosmos. They are those who, regardless of race or creed, are awakening to mission in service to the planet and the epochal imperatives of stability, continuity and regeneration. The Djedi sense, and know Osiris’s arising as their own. As Osiris awakens from the sleep of the aeon, the Djedi also ‘rise to the occasion,’ moving into resonant relationship as the re-constellated members of the collective Osiris. Therefore, as the mighty bones creak and the ancient One stirs, let the Djedi return. This is the historical moment of our awakening and our call. So prepare for the Return of the Jedi. And you thought it was just a movie...

Light Waves: Thoth the Atlantean known as Hermes

Creation according to Hermes: In the beginning Nous (God) created a second Nous, who becomes a craftsman and creates the world. Nous II creates seven powers in seven spheres around what will become earth; the spheres have control over what will be the earth.

They control what we know as destiny. The seven spheres are the moon, Sun, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. Here is the beginning of astrology. Nous II sets the spheres in motion and life beings on earth.

The Seed of Life (image is at 8.01 min.) as 6 circles around the 7th intersect at the diameter they create the sacred geometrical pattern. This pattern is at the base of your spinal column at the time you are born. This special seed stays there your entire life. A cross cut of DNA you see the flower of life. Image is at 8.27 min.

This pattern is a reflection of what is happening above. As above, so below. What happens in ether and the ether of space time is the exact pattern that exists and is responsible for all the energy that is flowing into the 3rd dimension and creating the electro-magnetic frequencies that collapse into what appears to be solid matter.

Universal consciousness would be the first of the 7 spheres. It begins to move and it divides into 2 spheres. It continues to create spheres and eventually creates the 64 grid tetrahedron. If you take away the tetrahedron it drops you into the flower of life pattern. Image is at 10.01 min. Mitosis is the fundamental basis of creating most life on earth, especially human beings.

Tesla implied that behind the veil there is invisible frequencies. Light wave coming to a cell phone carry data packets. Human bodies work the same way.

The universe runs on Natural Law binding, immutable conditions that govern the consequences of behavior. Also it includes:

- general principles of natural law
- the principle of mentalism
- the principle of correspondence
- the principle of vibration
- the principle of polarity
- the principle of rhythm
- the principle of cause and effect
- the principle of gender

Mentalism has to do with electro-magnetic waves. EMFs are coming out of your skull and are coming out of your brain. Every thought that you think is creating light waves that leave from the skull and travel out into space/time. These are conscious light waves.

Every time you think and every thought that you think are creating light waves that leave from the skull and travel out into space/time. These are now conscious light waves. In the beginning it was spheres dividing into spheres and endowing us with energetic frequencies that allow consciousness to transmute itself into the ability to encapsulate into our avatar bodies.

The mind can download the stream of consciousness just like your cell phone can download stream of information. When you discern it or think about it, you send information back on the upload back into space/time. The information is constantly there. That is why the Akashic records or the Book of Life are actually real.

Why? If I go to I Love Lucy shows from the 50s are light waves that are still emanating from space. If I was on a different star system and had the technology, I could download and watch those shows. The conscious light wave leaving your skull going back up into the universe works the exact same way. They travel infinitely and can be downloaded again.

Sometimes you come up with a great idea. A lot of the time you matched up with another entity's thought pattern that was similar to yours and you downloaded it. You can discern the download and maybe act on it to make it a reality in your life.

All information already exists in space/time. There is no new thought and there is nothing new under the sun. What we 'invent' is something that already exists in this universe. Many times we are getting downloads from light waves that left another being's body a million years ago. Sometimes we download ideas and act on them as our 'original ideas'. Inadvertently tapping into the akahsic records happens all the time. You are just not aware of it.

How do the light waves work and stay inside our bodies? We all have radio stations in our cities. Liken the radio station to God, Universal Consciousness, Creator of All, whatever you want to call it.

The radio station broadcasts frequencies. The universe is sending out frequencies on a consistent basis. As above so below. The radio station gives choices for tuning in for jazz, RMB, or rock to say 99.1, 99.2 and 99.3.

Take that concept and the universe is sending out frequencies of consciousness. The brain does not create consciousness. The brain downloads stream of consciousness.

Consciousness exists everywhere in space/time and we are downloading. What are we downloading? Our avatar body is set to specific frequencies just like the radio station.

The universe is broadcasting in to a set frequency. My frequency may be slightly different than your frequency just like the description of the radio station frequencies even though we are tuning in to the same consciousness. What is the receiving mechanism? We are a crystal set radio just like the one Nikola Tesla invented in the early 1900s.

Mapping Magnetite physics today: We have magnetite crystals in our brains. These crystal receivers can receive frequencies and can also sense the earth's magnetic field or any magnetic field. This is in our brains.

We have billions of magnetite crystals in our brains. These crystal receivers in the brain can receive frequencies and also sense the earth's magnetic field or any magnetic field. Image is at 19.13 min.

You heard of Jesus walking with a crown of thorns. Everyone is walking around with a 'crown of thorns.' There are 3 gigantic neurons that are wrapped around the inside of our skulls that looks like a crown of thorns under electron microscope, CRT, MRI scans. The crown of thorns is called the neural correlates of consciousness.

The neural correlates of consciousness are responsible for encapsulating the frequency and holding it. Then you have the tuning and that is the crystals, the magnetite crystals. And you have the Neo-cortex. Image is at 20.04 min. You also have the colostrum that works in conjunction. It is like the conductor that makes everything work in harmony.

You also have the Neo-cortex that is responsible for higher reasoning and higher levels of consciousness. It all works together with that stream of consciousness that is coming in. It encapsulates it into the avatar body and you become you. I would say "I am Billy Carson". Billy Carson and Jimmy Church, the host of this podcast, are the same exact person. He is another aspect of me and I am another aspect of him. We are all just another aspect of The Divine Creator whether you want to call it God, Universal Consciousness, Christ Consciousness—whatever you want to call it.

God is us and we are God; it is in us. The same Divine Creator that created the energy you see in the 3rd dimension is the same Divine Creator energy that is flowing through your veins and entire body. Because you are a fractal of that Divine Source you also then are the Source itself. This is the biggest thing that has been a mystery for people walking this planet for so many eons. Every day we try to relinquish the power that is already in us to an outside source. We don't realize that the power is already inside of us. The power is in you.

Let me give a demonstration of how conscious light waves work and how the brain can send wireless light waves out to space and with a very simple device we can capture those light waves and make something else happen. Image is at 21.56 min.

The human body is a biological avatar that is controlled by frequency and vibration. Your Light Being animates and operates your biological machine, aka avatar. In the example shown with the monkey this is showing that conscious light waves are interacting with a technological device that we created to download those waves that exist in space/time. They found a way to tap into them just like a person can tap into the Akashic records and capture information from any source.

This technology taps the intention of the movement the monkey with the paralyzed leg is going to make with the data packet on the light wave. So the light wave goes out carrying packets of data. The device in this test on the paralyzed monkey captures the data packet from the light wave and reads what the intention is supposed to be. The intention of the monkey was to move the paralyzed leg. Light waves are conscious.

What do I mean by 'light waves are conscious'? This is important to understand. We had a double split experiment where we took a small box and put a little device in it that was able to shoot one particle at a time...one electron at a time through 2 slits.

When the electron was shot through the slits and hit the back wall, it would come back and look at the back wall and create an interference pattern. So those running the test said if they were shooting these electrons through tiny slits in this tiny partition, and it is going through and hitting the wall, why don't we see digital dots of the electrons on the back wall of this device? Why were they seeing a wave pattern...an interference pattern that is creating a wave? That is bizarre.

So they took a look at it while it was going through the slit. They put a little camera to detect what was happening. Once they put the looking device there, the electron decided to become a particle. Then it was creating a digital pattern on the back wall like they thought it should be. When they took the camera away it became a wave again...a wave of potentials.

What does this mean? In quantum physics and quantum mechanics there is wave particle duality. Everything exists as a wave of potentials until a conscious observer collapses that wave into something we call solid matter or reality. In true reality solid matter is an illusion. Everything exists as a wave.

If you leave your house and travel to another city, you are not looking at your house and it exists as a wave of potential unless someone else is looking at it. Then it is going to collapse back into a house again. The reason it always collapses back into its shape and structure and not something different is because your house has a specific resonant frequency, the way it was created and the way the atoms are stacked. Those atoms have a specific resonant frequency.

Every time a conscious observer interacts with that frequency it collapses to the same exact house no matter what. When you are not looking at your house, it is not there. It exists as waves of potential. When you pull back up to your house it then collapses back into a solid structure again. This is hard for people to grasp but this is actually the way the universe works. This is true, real science.

Here's an interesting topic. Kal El from the Superman series of movies. Kal El, the birth name of Superman means Light God. Image is at 27.06 min.

Can brain waves interfere with radio waves? Image is at 27.14 min. No they can't. Radio waves that include radios and other wireless transmission as well as other natural signals in the same frequency peak around 50 and 1000 megahertz. The human brain also emits waves as when a person focuses attention or remembers something. The activity fires thousands of neurons simultaneously at the same frequency generating a wave of light. This is from MIT school of engineering. I'm backing things up so you understand I'm not making things up because it sounds fancy.

Why am I saying conscious light waves? Going back to the double experiment...remember, wave-particle-duality. Everything exists as a wave of light first and then converts itself into digital bits of information or what we call solid matter....things we can maneuver through the 3rd dimension including our own avatar bodies.

The electron actually made a decision. That is where it becomes conscious. It is part of the light wave and the light wave is part of it. Electrons orbit every atom in the universe as far as we know. We know for sure they do here on Earth in our local space. Electrons are orbiting every single atom.

If that is the case, that means that every atom is conscious. Why? Because the electrons themselves are already conscious. If electrons can make decisions based off conscious interaction, that means that every atom in your body is individually conscious. Every atom in your cell phone is individually conscious.

What does that mean? That means we have to start respecting one another. That means we have to start loving one another. That means we have to have respect for everything on this planet. And I mean everything. Why? Because everything is conscious. The mobile device, TV or laptop you are using to watch this broadcast is conscious. Don't think it is just a piece of useless plastic. The electrons that orbit those atoms are conscious electrons.

When you have this understanding or this knowledge that everything in the entire universe is conscious, you are going to have a lot more respect for it. You are going to treat it better.

In a previous time I was coaching basketball. I was coaching at a high level of Jr. Olympics and AAU basketball. I was at a huge college tournament in Atlanta. There was an opposing team there.

We take pride in our gear—the matching shirts with the duffle bags and the shoes. Taking pride in looking good is part of the 'swag' that helps you play more confident. There were about 300 schools at the tournament including Division 1, 2, and 3 colleges boys and girls. There may have been 50 or 60 college coaches watching our teams play.

On one of the opposing teams there was a female player who was dragging her duffel bag on the floor, not using the shoulder strap. I was sitting next to some college coaches who were originally interested in her. They had watched her play the entire weekend and 2 schools wanted to make her an offer to her with full scholarship.

When they saw her dragging her bag like that the coaches said they couldn't take her. She is showing that she has no respect for her own stuff. If she had known that bag was conscious maybe she would have treated it a little bit differently.

Maybe we take care of our stuff better. Maybe we respect other people's property better. Maybe when we get a rental car we don't try to destroy that rental car before we turn it back in, thinking it is our free race car for the weekend. Maybe we treat that car with respect and dignity.

Maybe we treat rocks with respect because rocks are conscious. A blade of grass is conscious. We have to understand that because of this it takes you to another level of thought.

Lynn's thoughts: the system is not treating humans with respect by taking over the biosensors and bodies as Sabrina Wallace has taught for over two years. What happens if we make conscious efforts to bless and appreciate every atom in our body. Can we ask every atom to bless and respect us in return, thereby bypassing the remote sensor control of the body? We have to think outside the box on their technology that is extremely disrespectful to every atom in our bodies...blood, tissue, skin, brain, nerves, etc. Can we overwrite their 'plans and programs' through respecting every individual atom in our body? We have to think outside the box!

Billy continues: I spent some time in Asia in 2019 in Cambodia. I hiked 36 miles through the jungle to a temple. I went to Korea, Japan and all over including Viet Nam. I had a chance to meet some monks out there. When I was going to meet them, they had their child monks out there cleaning and sweeping. I learned from these monks that they tried to perfect every aspect of life.

They respect everything even if it is a dustpan and a broom it must be treated with respect and dignity. If your job is to sweep the floor, you must sweep it to complete perfection. Sweeping the floor becomes an art. Taking out the garbage becomes an actual art—the way you take it out, the way you put the bag back in the trashcan. There is high level thinking that goes into it adding the respect for the actual chore itself. And there is respect for the items that are involved in the chore.

Why do they do this? They understand the principles that I am telling you about right now.

Lynn's thoughts again: Do those who are sensor hunters for those sensors placed in our bodies for years have no respect for their own capabilities and no respect for ethics? Does that make it all a sloppy system? Do those who hire the sensor hunters and develop this system have no respect for life of others? Will that lack of respect wash over into their own lives? We have to think outside the box!

How do I live with respect for myself? I take care of where I live better than the owner of the property. I get up every day and dress as though I am going to work...and I am. I don't slouch around even though I could. I get dressed, make the bed, run my errands, research and type articles, do videos, and other work with our plasma energy. I thank our plasma energy every day and salute the divine in it and play some music for it every day. I do my walking, my exercise routine every day, along with my Wim Hof breathing, the acupuncture and tuning fork routine I do on myself. I don't depend on outside medical people to take care of me...it's my job. I go to the chiropractor to keep things aligned that get out of alignment with my work routine. I drink my proper amount of plasma energy water everyday. And I do daily intentions. And on and on....

Billy continues: Everything is conscious.... everything. Everything that exists in the 3rd dimension is already conscious. That is the principle the monks live by. Because of that understanding, they treat everything at a high level of respect.

Now we will talk about DNA and how light interacts with DNA. First of all DNA is a storage device. You can save information on DNA—digital bits of data on DNA. Don't take it from me. Here is something from the Syss Institute of Harvard Medical School. Photo is a 34.33 min.

Video:

Speaker 1: This research is about alternative ways of storing digital data for archival purposes with DNA.

Speaker 2: The initial thought was "I don't care what I am building, so why don't we just build Moby Dick or something to encode DNA. I didn't want to worry about design at this point."

Speaker 1: "We debated about what we should encode, that represented the digital universe. We wanted something that represented modern...so we used the html version of a book that I wrote recently called Regenesis. The html form, the web form includes digital images. It includes java script programming language that performs interactively with the person. We encoded that into the DNA.

Speaker 2: Based on some prior work we started thinking of DNA as a source of information storage. It is very long lasting and you can recover it after thousands of years. It is a very dense storage information source.

Speaker 1: DNA can be stored in a volume. The density is remarkably high as one bit per base, one base per cubic nanometer, and we can store almost a zetabyte and a gram of DNA, a milliliter volume.

Speaker 2: theoretically with DNA you could store 1.8 zetabytes and about 4 grams of DNA.

Speaker 1: it leverages rapidly and improves next generation reading and writing of DNA.

Speaker 2: the book we encoded was actually a book George had written and in the book there is a section on this particular piece of work. The sentence being shown in the image is almost a meta-sentence from the book...we show how we started with the f in referential and N in DNA and take it to individual bits which correspond to ASCII codes and a bar code. We take those 1s and 0s and convert them to .... DNA basis where tng stands for 1 and anc stands for 0. Then we add _____ to synthesize it on a micro--- chip. It shows the red bar code in the blue data block in the larger context of bar codes and data blocks. When we sequenced the whole thing we get many copies of each bar code sequence. Then we code the message and then we go back and decode the message back to 1s and 0s and then back to text. Because we have the address we know where it goes back. Once we sequence everything we are able to re-construct what the original message or digital information that we are encoding.

Speaker 1: this is a problem I had been brooding about since 2000 when we applied for a DARPA grant on DNA memory. Slowly it became more evident how we could implement this with technology that was developed since 2001.....

Speaker 2: initially I would follow him around to make sure everything was okay. Within a couple of days it was kind of normal to have George in the lab which was fun. It was fun teaching him some of the newer stuff that wasn't around when he was doing experiments.

Speaker 1: we did a lot of sequence analysis afterwards to see the error rates. He was taking the role of a senior investigator even though he was a post-doctoral fellow working with me. I took on the role of the junior investigator since I was doing a lot of the pipetting and laboratory work. So it was a pleasant role-reversal for me.

Speaker 2: there are a few things that are vetted by limited by our storage capability. If we could store everything we would not be throwing out data; we wouldn't be re-using discs and tape drives. If we could store—archive-- video information over broad sets of the earth until something really good or really bad happens, then sweep the data and find out what actually happened in great detail, this is not something we would consider doing today.

Speaker 1: imagine if there were very inexpensive biological camroes (?) that could be encoded in the DNA and you could have very exhaustive archives of this that would only infrequently be accessed. Or you could imagine other huge access that could be all the neuronal fibers in the brain to be encoded in the DNA and you could do selective reading as needed.

Billy: another use of this with the use of light waves is teleportation. Right now we have been able to teleport several molecules from earth to the space station. This is like standing on the pad in Star Trek and your body vanishes in that pad and reappears on another planet or ship—wherever they are trying to teleport you to. Teleportation is becoming a reality today and we are able to do it with individual particles and now molecules. I think the farthest distance has been 6 or 7 miles.

Now with the advent of DNA storage devices and the capability to store information on DNA we are talking about being able to store every single position, location and spin rate of the atoms in your body and then teleporting them to another location where the computer on that side will create and put back together every atom of your body in the exact same position making you a 'copy of you.'

One thing you have to understand with teleportation is you are creating a facsimile every time you teleport. So it is 'you' but in a way it is a 'copy of you.' When you teleport, the original you is actually destroyed and what pops up on the other side is the copy of you. Every teleportation you see on Star Trek is an incarnation of that person, just to give you a heads up.

I want to talk about the atom. We found out that not only does DNA store information, but atoms individually store information as well. Described in The Journal of Nature physicists working at an IBM research facility in California found that when the helium atoms were placed on a special surface made of magnesium oxide, they naturally oriented themselves to magnetic north and south pole, just like regular magnets are pointing either straight up or straight down. They remain that way in a very stable condition.

What is more, they can make the atoms flip by giving them a zap with a scanning tunneling microscope that has a needle with a tip the width of an atom. The experiment mimics the way a hard drive work. The tiny discs point either up or down and that orientation contains binary information –either a one or a zero. Photo is at 43.51 min.

So now we have learned how to write data on an individual atom. What does that mean? Every atom in your body is made of light. We are literally walking vessels of light. Every atom in your body stores information and has information in it...real code and real information.

I am telling you now that every atom in your body because of the way this universe is created and propagated ... your body has the secrets of the entire universe from the moment of its existence until today. This is actually in the atoms inside your body. The same with the DNA. We have discovered that one human body has enough DNA to store 13.5 million years of data. Ironically that is just about the age of the universe. So what that means is you are a walking hard drive, a data storage unit that has atoms, molecules that create the entire avatar body including the DNA that is inside. All this is storing an immense amount of information.

These are light waves collapsed into matter that have data on them. The secret to unlock anything in the entire universe is already inside of your body. It is already in every single one of us. Scientists concluded that the average human body contains approximately 37.5 trillion cells. Each cell generates .07 volts of electricity and that is 2.63 trillion volts of electricity that is in your body right now.

When someone says the power is in you, no, it is not just a saying. It is real. The power is literally inside your body—2.63 trillion volts of electricity in the average human body. This is why you saw in the Matrix Movie the human beings in the artificial wombs to power the entire matrix system. People would look at that and not understand the human body could generate this kind of electricity.

This is where the energy for Chi Gong, Reiki healing comes from. All this is through the energy centers that are already in the human body. The energy is funneling out from the cell walls and up the chakra system to create these healing modalities. The human body is like a walking, nuclear bomb. The power is literally inside your body. We have access to that power and energy. You just have to know how to access it and utilize it. Some people do such as the Chi Gong masters and the Reiki healers.

When you look at and read the Gospel of the Holy Twelve, it is a hard to find scripture. I bought my copy for $650 on Amazon. This scripture tells you where Jesus was from the age of 12 to 32 when he disappeared from the modern day bible. He was in Egypt and I went to the house he lived in to document this in 2014. The house is actually a shrine in Coptic Cairo. He and his mother lived there and he was there to learn the Egyptian mysteries. Then he went to Tibet to learn about the Reiki healing and then to India to learn the mystic arts, how to manipulate the environment using your mind. All the way back he taught reincarnation and that was his true mission. That was all the way back to Egypt.

The ancients, all the sages knew about the energy centers in the human body as well as Chi Gong and Reiki. This is all ancient knowledge on how to maneuver light waves in their bodies and utilize the power and energy for healing, learning and everything else.

We know now that light waves are conscious, and we know that because atoms themselves are conscious. Atoms are part of this wave particle duality and we are made of atoms. So we are walking beings of light. When you hear someone call you the 'family of light' that is real. We are the family of light—the human being exists both as light and as solid matter. Our consciousness is a multi-dimensional light wave that steps down from the 11th dimension down to the 3rd dimension so it can inhabit this avatar body.

Another thing that we have to understand is that because that beam of conscious light is coming down and encapsulating this avatar there is a delay factor. There is a step-down delay factor and scientists have discovered that your decisions are made up to 7 seconds before you even decided. Your brain is already interacting with consciousness and receiving downloads from space/time up to 7 seconds before you make the decision.

This was discovered by accident. They were doing an experiment where they wanted to map the human brain on a computer and see what the different emotions from the human brain looked like on the computer. Science understands that we are emitting light waves out of our skull. They put a cap on your head with electrodes to pick up the frequencies and light. They capture the light waves. They put a screen in front of everyone and show photos on the screen. They space the photos out 10 feet apart.

The first is a bed of roses, then a woman kissing a baby, someone getting run over by a car or getting murdered. Now this information is transmitted from the brain to the computer so scientists can map the brain to see what it looks like with different emotions and perceptions. What started happening in every case study, and this has been duplicated dozens of times, the human brain started sending to the computer what the next image was going to be up to 7 seconds before the image even showed up on the screen.

Scientists were baffled. They duplicated the study over and over and kept coming up with the same result. The brain, up to 7 seconds in advance, was sending the information to the computer. There is only one hypothesis that could be happening. That is that the conscious stream that comes into this avatar body discerns and is told 'this is the moment of now' and there is a delay factor in that moment of now.

What we are experiencing as the moment of now in the avatar body actually happened 7 seconds ago. This means we are living in delayed time. Real time is the incoming stream, that beam—consciousness—that comes in. Delayed time –by the time it takes our brain to capture it, process, discern and act on it and what we think is happening in real time is not real time at all. This is a significant delay.

If you are in a foot race in track and field and someone beats you by 7 seconds you got ‘whipped.’ If someone beats you in a car race by 7 seconds you got ‘destroyed.’ 7 seconds is a lot of time. 53.13 for photo.

This means we have to be more cognitive of what we are, the decisions we are making. We also have to operate from a higher level of thought. Once you understand what I am telling you today, hopefully you can understand the levels of consciousness that you need to obtain.

The average person in the example of holding a pen as that person, the wave crashes over them. Every time the wave crashes they are aware of the moment they are living in. They are literally living their lives by the crash of every individual wave creating a response such as I need to go get something to drink. I have to make a left turn at the traffic light. I have to get up and go to work.

People are literally living crash by crash in a reactive state. When you become a master of your consciousness, you are getting to higher levels of thought, you move from underneath the wave and you start rising little by little to where you get closer to real time. The real time information is ‘above’ you. Eventually you want to ride the wave like a surfer. Now you get the information faster from above and you are not living in a reactive state. You are proactive and able to make better and quicker decisions that alter your future reality.

Example: Michael Jordan said when he played basketball the ‘game slowed down.’ Playing basketball at a high level is a meditation. Going for walks can be a meditation. Jordan would ‘flip a switch’ and everything slowed down but he was still at real time speed, riding the wave. What he is saying he can read passes, defenses, offenses, and where the ball goes next. When he was jumping for the rim he could maneuver while he was in the air. He was ‘riding the wave’ and was closer to real time source. He could predict everyone else’s maneuvers.

The top martial arts people will tell you the same thing. Conscious light waves exist and make up your conscious avatar body and you are downloading the stream of these conscious light waves from universal consciousness, or God, the Divine, whatever you want to call it. You are utilizing your colostrum, your Neo-cortex, your magnetite crystals, and your neural consciousness to encapsulate that unique frequency that we call 'you,' even though we are all aspects of Divine source.

Because of that it animates the avatar body. In the avatar body itself, there is a data storage capacity that can hold 'oodles of information' literally. Zenobytes of data are inside of your body and you have an unlimited power source. You have 2.63 million volts of electricity in the body. We are truly highly intelligent conscious beings that have unlimited power of capabilities. We have the data and information already on the inside of us that will give us all the secrets of ourselves and the entire universe as a whole.

We need to tap into that and understand that everything is consciousness and have unconditional love and respect for everyone and everything. Once we do that, this world is going to change for the better. When I can see you 'not you' but I see you as 'me' and I realize 'how would I like to be treated?' Now I will treat you as I would like to treat myself. If I have any dignity, respect or love for myself at all, you are going to feel that love. When I deal with anybody, anybody will tell you the same thing. Billy has great energy. Why? I see everybody as me. You will feel that.

When you walk through a room you should be vibrating at such a high frequency that everyone should feel that presence. If they are low, if their frequency is low because sorrow, pain, disgust, fear or whatever they are going through your high frequency vibration that is rotating out of your torois field coming out of your heart should interact with them and raise their frequency and make them feel better.

You should have the power to walk into a room of darkness and automatically create light in that room. Darkness and light—if you have a room full of light there is no way that any dark can come in and make it dark. If you in a room full of darkness and you turn on a tiny flashlight or a little light comes in through a crack or a crevice, the darkness flees. It runs from light.

Remember that darkness always runs from light. Be the light that we already truly are. We are the family of light, the beings of light. We are the energetic beings that are spoken of in these ancient texts. Even though homo sapiens sapien are the 'new kid on the block' we are still constructed in the way of the Divine and that makes us true light beings.

Through our ascension process one day we may shed these 3rd dimensional avatar bodies and move purely into a light vessel. Right now our mission is to operate on unconditional love, care for one another, be of service to others, and truly try to become a blessing on this planet. My mission is to bring heaven to earth.

I don't think we should be waiting to die so that we can live. I really truly believe that we should begin to live right now today. Part of the mission, I truly believe, is that we are here to collect data and prove that we are worthy to get to the next dimension by all the lessons we have learned and the respect that we have given out in this 3rd dimension.

You have to imagine universal consciousness works the way your brain works—as above, so below. The human brain doesn't know anything that is going on out here. But the human brain has friends—your senses of hearing, touch, taste, smell and sight. The brain needs to know what is going on so the senses go out to collect the information. The friends—the senses—go out and collect data. The friends, the senses, have no clue what they are collecting. They just collect digital bits of information from interacting with electromagnetic fields on the outside.

They bring the information back to the brain that is encased in complete darkness. The brain analyzes and processes that data and projects the hologram of what it thinks is going on out there. Then you navigate through the 3rd dimension based on that hologram. Consciousness works the same way on the Universal level whether you call it God, the Divine, whatever you want to call it.

You have to imagine this one universal mind that is out there. What is it doing? It has friends...oodles of sentient beings like myself, you, rocks, blades of grass. Every atom is a friend of this consciousness because every atom and every electron is conscious.

All this information is being collected just like a data collection machine. All the information from this 3rd dimension is being transmitted back to the Source. It is uploaded to Source. The brain is on a data collection mission—where do you think we got it from? As above so below. The universe is on a data collection mission. The Universal Mind, consciousness, the One that Exists, is doing the exact same thing as our brain. We are just copying what is on a higher level.

The universe itself is on a data collecting mission. It is utilizing our avatar bodies, our experiences and everything else to become different aspects of itself to collect information to know what it is like to be human, a black man in America sitting at a computer talking about itself right now.

What is the scientist looking at an atom under a microscope learning about an atom? From the esoteric level the universe is a conscious entity that is growing and learning just like we are. It is getting smarter and smarter and learning how to understand the reality of life in 3rd dimension through us and everything that exists in 3rd dimension. It is part of our mission because we are part of the whole to gather this information and to learn and to become better.

I truly believe we come back again and help people in a way that becomes a blessing to them. Maybe eventually we go to higher dimensions and help people and entities in other dimensions. We keep moving up that ladder to the 11th dimension.

“The largest collection of ancient texts ever contained in a single book that includes: Sumerian, Akkadian, Babylonian, Egyptian, Gnostic, Greek, and more.

- The 200,000-year timeline of humanity, from the rise of civilization.
- New archaeological discoveries, ice-core data, and compelling-scientific evidence to prove lost civilizations once existed.
- Detailed analysis of the Anunnaki and their role in human-Earth history.
- The future of humanity and transition into the Age of Aquarius.

Today all reasonable astrophysicists still proclaim that there is life out there, but no alien civilization has ever visited the earth. Billy Carson and Matthew LaCroix see it differently. They prove that the earth is not a closed system and contacts have very well taken place. Thus they contradict the straight prevailing spirit of the age. This needs courage. I recommend THE EPIC OF HUMANITY book as a groundbreaking look into the new reasoning and evidence. The old one has had its day.”
